From the Director

In May 2010, Roger Hall left a six-year tenure as director of the Hallie Ford Museum of Art. Roger has become a fixture in the Willamette Valley for his leadership, mentorship, and commitment to the arts. He is a loved and respected member of the community and is admired for his generous spirit and wisdom. When Roger left, we were all asked to imagine who might take his place.

For the past decade, Roger played an active role in the development of the Hallie Ford Museum of Art. He has been involved in numerous projects that have been driven by his passion for the arts, his commitment to the community, and his belief in the power of art to inspire and transform lives.

Roger was a dynamic leader who led the institutional transformation of the Hallie Ford Museum of Art. He was a trusted advisor and a wise mentor to many of the museum’s staff members.

In addition to his work as the director of the museum, Roger also contributed to the field of art and culture in a variety of ways. He was a frequent speaker at art institutions and events, and he regularly appeared in the media, discussing art and culture with great insight and wisdom.

Roger will continue to serve as a faculty curator at the Hallie Ford Museum of Art, where he will continue to bring value to our permanent collection. He will continue to be a valuable asset to the museum and to the community.

Roger is a true leader and a true friend. He will be deeply missed, but his legacy will live on through the many lives he touched and the work he accomplished.

Joe Feddersen: Vital Signs

Joe Feddersen has been a fixture in the world of contemporary art for over 40 years. He is a leading figure in the field, and his work is widely admired for its innovation and originality.

Feddersen has been recognized with numerous awards and honors, including a Guggenheim Fellowship, a National Endowment for the Arts grant, and a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. His work has been exhibited in numerous solo and group shows around the world, and it is represented in numerous public and private collections.

Feddersen’s work is characterized by its boldness and innovation, and it is a testament to the power of art to inspire and transform lives.

We are grateful to Roger for his dedication and support, and we look forward to continuing to work with him in the future. We are also grateful to the Hallie Ford Museum of Art for providing this opportunity to honor a true leader and a true friend.
