From Tom Ellis concerning the Great Decisions presentation Tuesday afternoon:

Pursuant to the vexing topic of climate migration, I would like to share an excellent article I found on Medium, where the author, Albert Bates, contemplates this issue of climate migration from the broad perspective of human evolution on one hand, and recent horrific events like the Hamas invasion and massacre on the other: <https://medium.com/@cooldesign/barbarians-at-the-border-5a0417d1b245>

(Note from editor: If you're not a Medium member you might not see the entire article. It might let you read this one article for free, but you have to create an account. Tom says it's well worth $5/month.)

Climate Smart Ag Conversation - Thursday, Noon in Kaneko on Zoom

Join us and the partners of PCUN (farmworkers union) and Friends of Family Farmers for a Climate-Smart Ag Conversation with special guest Congresswoman Andrea Salinas. The discussion will include topics such as climate-smart agriculture practices, farmworker rights, and improvements to the federal Farm Bill that will benefit small farmers, farmworkers, and the climate.

If you have questions for Congresswoman Salinas, send them to GwenEllyn and she will pass them on to the hosts. gwenellyn@gmail.com

The COLLEGIAN, Willamette's Independent Student Newspaper since 1889:

You can read about a nearby yard full of bunny rabbits. The article says the house is on Mill Street but the backyard is actually on Trade Street between 14th and 15th, just a couple blocks from Kaneko.

If bunnies don't interest you, there are a lot of other interesting articles about things that are happening on the Willamette campus.

From the Hallie Ford Museum of Art: A History Lecture with John Olbrantz

Thursday, November 9, 2023 | 7:30 PM – 8:45 PM

Willamette U. Truman Wesley Collins Legal Center | Paulus Lecture Hall (245 Winter ST SE)

Join John Olbrantz, the Maribeth Collins Director of the Hallie Ford Museum of Art, for a lecture celebrating the museum's 25th anniversary. Learn about the museum's rich and colorful history; the development of its diverse and impressive permanent collection, which includes over 11,000 objects ranging from ancient art to modern masters; its history of world-class exhibitions, dynamic education programs, and scholarly publications; some of the key individuals who have guided and supported the museum over the past twenty-five years; and its prospects for the future.

This complimentary lecture is offered in conjunction with The Hallie Ford Museum of Art at 25: Highlights from the Permanent Collection exhibition and 25th anniversary celebration.
