Committee Bylaws

Updated May 1st, 2021

1. THE COMMUNITY ACTION FUND FOR EQUITY AND SUSTAINABILITY (CAFES)

1a. Definition

In April 2014, the undergraduate student body voted to approve a "Green" fee of $25 per student per semester. With the exception of students in the American Studies Program, the fee has since been charged to all College of Liberal Arts students with the option of opting out each semester. With the 2019-20 academic year, Atkinson Graduate School of Management and College of Law students were incorporated into the fee-paying body, also provided with an opt-out option each semester.

The purpose of the fund is to provide students, faculty, and staff of Willamette University with an opportunity to make environmentally, culturally, and socially sustainable changes to the campus community. While the fund was initially created to respond to the Four Es of the Strategic Plan (education, environment, equity, and economics), in 2018, the committee formally decided to extend the mission of the Green Fund to more visibly include social justice projects. The 2018-19 committee felt that a rebranding was needed to reflect this growth and the name of the fund changed from the Green Fund to the Community Action Fund for Equity and Sustainability (CAFES). The fund will advance the state of sustainability, equity, and social justice within the Willamette University community. More information on the goals of the fund can be found in the Constitution.

1b. Mandatory Allocations

During its tenure the CAFES Committee shall determine any mandatory allocations for committee operations, mini-grants, and other expenses, and include them in amended bylaws approved before the end of the current academic year.

2. DUTIES OF THE COMMUNITY ACTION FUND FOR EQUITY AND SUSTAINABILITY COMMITTEE

4a. Roles and Responsibilities of Committee Members

The committee will act as the deliberating body on the use of the "Green Initiative Fee." As such, the committee will make decisions on how to allocate the fee based on the requests that come before it. All committee members, including ex-officio members, will be responsible for the following:

- Representing all members of the extended campus community of Willamette University.
- Maintaining an unbiased approach to all deliberations and decisions.
- Conducting themselves in such a way that conflicts of interest are minimized and all potential conflicts of interest are disclosed to voting members of the committee. Conflicts typically arise when a committee member has contributed to the development of a proposal, has a relationship with a person named on a proposal that may affect their decision making, and/or would materially benefit from the project if funded. A committee member who discloses a conflict of interest shall be excused while the remainder of the committee votes to decide if the conflict of interest requires (1) the committee member's absence during committee discussion of the project, (2) their absence from any vote to fund the proposal, and (3) if conflicts are sufficient for the committee to not accept the proposal for consideration. For such votes, the quorum, as defined for voting majority purposes, shall be decreased to account for the committee member's recusal. In the event that a committee member fails to recuse themselves due to a conflict of interest, they may be removed from the committee (via process described in Section 8).

- Familiarity with university wide budget and structures.
- Maintaining the values held in the Constitution.
- Monitoring the current spending of the "Green Initiative Fee" to ensure that money is being allocated faithfully to accomplish the goals set forth in the applications from the previous year.

The Voting Members will be directly responsible for the following:

- Reading, understanding, and deliberating on requests to alter funded projects.
- Communicating with applicants and the general campus community the date, time, location, and agenda for open meetings.
- Communicating to applicants the status of applications and the current and past use of the fee.
- Making decisions on the use of the fee, alterations to funded programs, terminations of funded programs, members of the incoming committee, election of its leadership, and all other foreseen or unforeseen situations that may arise.

The undergraduate and graduate student members of the committee will fill the following roles:

One Chair or two Co-Chairs.

The Chair is tasked with the organization and maintenance of the committee. The Chair organizes and facilitates meetings and committee conversations about grant proposals and keeps the conversation consistent and focused on upholding the values and expectations of the fund. The Chair should be able to have adequate communication skills in that they will be responsible for reaching out to the committee, the grant applicants, the Faculty Advisor, and other non-voting members of the committee as the need arises.

One Student Outreach Coordinator.

The primary role of the Student Outreach Coordinator is to promote and increase awareness of the fund and its functions to members of the Willamette Community. This position allows for creativity and initiative in designing marketing strategies, while also maintaining established techniques and approaches as they see fit. The role of the Student Outreach Coordinator is to advertise for proposals as well as overall promotion of the fund and its functions.

One Secretary.

The role of the Secretary is crucial to the committee's success in organization of committee files, documents, and project proposals. The Secretary's role is to document committee activity and maintain these records in an organized fashion to be accessible to all current and future committees.

One Project Advisor.

The Project Advisor monitors the progress of all projects after funding has been allocated and projects are underway. The Project Advisor periodically communicates with project leaders on behalf of the committee to ensure a successful completion of the approved project.

One Proposal Consultant.

The Proposal Consultant is responsible for being available to discuss with potential project leaders during the planning and writing stages of the proposal process. This role helps create a more accessible committee for those wanting to request funding.

One ASWU Senator.

An Associated Students of Willamette University senator is to serve as a liaison between the committee and ASWU Senate. Their role is to be a resource for the committee and the Fund program as needed, but also to actively facilitate communication between the two groups to ensure consistency and avoid overlap.

(Optional) One undergraduate student representative of the Sustainability Advisory Board (SAB).

One undergraduate student is appointed to represent undergraduate students on the Advisory Board. This student may also serve as a voting member of the committee if they choose to. The student in this role is responsible for communicating between the two groups and to be a resource for the committee and fund as needed. The SAB representative may serve in another role on the committee simultaneously.

One School of Law student representative.

One School of Law student is appointed at the discretion of the Student Bar Association (SBA) President to represent School of Law students on the committee. This student serves as a voting member of the committee. The student in this role is responsible for communicating back to the SBA, providing insight into the benefits of proposals to their respective school, and being a resource for the committee and fund as needed.

One Atkinson Graduate School of Management student representative.

One Atkinson Graduate School of Management student is appointed at the discretion of the Atkinson Student Association (ASA) President to represent AGSM students on the committee. This student serves as a voting member of the committee. The student in this role is responsible for communicating back to the ASA, providing insight into the benefits of proposals to their respective school, and being a resource for the committee and fund as needed.

4b. Roles and Responsibilities of Non-Voting Ex-Officio Committee Members

Faculty Advisor. The advisor should recognize the directions in which the fund and the committee are growing with each new academic year and committee. The faculty advisor should recognize the evolving definition of sustainability and the fundamental inclusion of social justice within its definition. "Just sustainability" is defined as: "The need to ensure a better quality of life for all, now and into the future, in a just and equitable manner, whilst living within the limits of supporting ecosystems" (Agyeman, et al., 2003, 5). They will provide voting committee members with advice and information to effectively evaluate proposals, develop appropriate processes to evaluate proposals, avoid micromanaging, and have the confidence that the committee is capable of navigating university systems, and do what they can to support the committee's work. Furthermore, they should collaborate with the Financial Officer and other non-voting members to ensure that proper steps are taken in fee allocation, funds are returned when necessary, and institutional memory is maintained regarding usage of the fee when the committee is unable to do so effectively. They should prepare transition notes for the next faculty advisor and participate in transition meetings as needed, some of which may occur over the summer.

Financial Officer

One financial officer student is hired to monitor the funds available for grants and develop and facilitate a process of allowing grant recipients to access the required funds consistent with policies and practices set by Willamette University's Accounting Office. With the Accounting Office, they will manage reimbursements, maintain the account, and make sure the committee is able to roll money over each year. They will also inform the committee on the financial status of CAFES and attend meetings as a paid non-voting member.

Director, Willamette University Sustainability Institute. The Director will provide voting committee members with advice and information to effectively evaluate proposals and develop appropriate processes when specialized understanding and direction in the case of past allocations as needed. The Director will provide the committee advice as to possible benefits, costs, and other issues associated with proposed projects when requested. Furthermore, they should collaborate with the Budget Manager and Faculty Advisor to ensure that proper steps are taken in fee allocation, and that the money is returned when necessary, and to maintain current information regarding usage of the fee when the committee is unable to do so effectively.

Vice President of Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (or designee). The Vice President or their designee will provide voting committee members with advice and information to effectively evaluate proposals and develop appropriate processes. Specifically, they may also provide specialized perspectives and recommendations about promoting principles of equity, diversity and inclusion.

Vice President of Campus Life (or designee). The Vice President or their designee will provide voting committee members with advice and information to effectively evaluate proposals and develop appropriate processes.

Vice President of University Services or designee. The Vice President or their designee will provide voting committee members with advice and information to effectively evaluate proposals that include campus infrastructure and other facilities related matters. They may also provide guidance on language used in “future call for proposals” that helps orient the campus community to projects that are more appropriate with existing facilities and plans.

If the committee deems it necessary, it may define and identify additional ex-officio committee members and request their participation in meetings. The committee may also form a non-voting technical advisory board that will advise the committee and offer objective knowledge as needed.

5. VOTING MEMBERS

Students interested in serving as members of the committee will submit applications in response to a call for applications from the committee. The current committee will make the final placement decisions for the five at-large seats on the committee.

6. VOTING PRIVILEGES

Each student committee member will have one vote. If a tie occurs due to even numbers, the Chair will abstain from voting. If a member is unable to attend a meeting, they can vote electronically or remotely before the vote commences or during.

7. TERMS OF OFFICE

Voting members will hold one term. The term will begin on the first day of the fall semester and end the last day of the following spring semester. Current committee members may apply to be appointed to the next committee. Leadership roles will begin upon the beginning of their term and terminate at the end of the term.

8. COMMITTEE MEMBER COMPENSATION

Voting members and the financial officers will receive a leadership award each semester they work on the committee. The leadership awards should follow university guidelines and any changes in amounts must be approved by committee members. Leadership awards will be paid in two lump-sums; half at the beginning of the semester and half after the completion of the semester. Positions are categorized into three levels and paid accordingly.

Level 1 (typically one hour of work per week)

- Law representative
- AGSM representative

Level 2 (typically 2-3 hours of work per week)

- Student outreach coordinator
- Proposal consultant
- Project advisor
- Secretary

Level 3 (typically 3-5 hours of work per week)

- Financial officer
- Chair

Current leadership award amounts:

Level 1 - $500 per semester

Level 2 - $750 per semester

Level 3 - $1000 per semester

8. VACANCIES, EXPULSIONS, AND IMPEACHMENT

Vacancies will be replaced in the same manner as provided for new appointments. In the case that an individual is unable to serve the duration of their term, a replacement may be appointed by remaining committee members to serve out the duration of the vacated term. In consultation with the ex-officio advisors, a committee member may be removed by a 'yes' vote of 75% committee members for unjustifiable absences, conflicts of interest, or other reasons deemed appropriate by the committee. The member being dismissed from the committee may speak at the meeting when a vote takes place. In consultation with non-voting committee members, the ASWU president may also expel a member of the committee. A new committee member may be selected by the remaining committee in consultation with the ASWU president, and will serve the remainder of the original member's term. The member being dismissed from the committee may speak at the meeting when a vote takes place.

9. TRANSITION AND TRANSITION COMMITTEE

The committee transition period begins after the last regular committee meeting in the spring semester and ends the first regular committee meeting in the fall semester. During this period ex-officio committee members, including the Faculty Advisor, any returning voting members may form a transition committee. During this time all inquiries concerning the fee will be directed to the transition committee. If during this period the success of a funded project may be adversely affected by unforeseen circumstances, the ASWU President, in consultation with the transition committee, may make decisions on behalf of the committee that include the modification of project budgets.

10. COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The committee will maintain and publish a regular schedule of meetings during the fall and spring semesters, at their earliest convenience and sufficient to conduct the business of the fund program during the academic year. Quorum is met when no more than two voting committee members are absent. The committee will continue to function regardless of whether the student body presidents appoint representatives to the committee and whether those representatives attend meetings. Individual regular meetings may include both closed and public portions, but must be advertised as such in order to occur. The secretary will ensure notes are taken at all official meetings and shared with other committee members. Meeting notes will be made available upon request. All voting committee members will be required to attend all scheduled meetings, and a failure to do so may be grounds for removal from the committee by vote.

13. AMENDMENT OF BYLAWS

The voting committee members may amend, create, or repeal portions of these Bylaws, unless doing so would materially and adversely affect the mission of the Fund. All amendments to these governing documents will be made according to Robert's Rules of Order, and only when all voting members vote and at least all but one voting member vote in favor of changes to bylaws.
